HOW A DOLLAR GREW

History of a Prize Dollar Won by a Little Girl in a Press Story Contest

GREW RAPIDLY FROM $1.00 TO $41.85

Murphysboro, Ill., Feb. 9th.
DEAR EDITOR—If you will allow me space in your valuable paper I will tell you how a dollar grew.

Some two or three years ago you requested the little folks to write stories to the Press. So after reading several stories from the little children, I decided to write one.

While I was trying to think of a subject to write on, I noticed a worm's nest in a carpet that was hanging on the garden fence. So when I was helping mamma or answering my little crippled sister I said to myself "I would write a story 'A Worm's Nest in a Carpet.'" I wrote it and after waiting three or four weeks I saw that story was published. Imagine how proud I felt, if you can, when I saw my story in the Press. Oh, how happy I felt!

Well as days and months went by now in the Press that the Editor sent my address, said I was the winner of third prize which was a dollar. So I tried to buy a pig with a dollar but could find no dollar.

I loaned the dollar out for six months and took five percent interest. I set the eggs under one hundred hens and raised ten dozen and sold them for $3.00, took the money and bought two pigs, kept them a little over a year and sold them for $41.85.

Mr Jenkins, I thought you like to know what I did with the dollar. I would like to know what the other little folks did with their money.

Wishing the Press success I remain your little friend
VIRGIL LOVE.

Notice

Notice to pastors, superintendents and leaders of S. S. The fifth annual session of the pastors institute will be in Louisville beginning Feb. 18th, 1907, and continuing five days. This will be a fine opportunity for pastors, teachers and superintendents of S. S. If 100 tickets can be sold in Crittenden county you will be entitled to reduced rates. Send in your name by Feb. 15th, pastors will get lodgings and breakfast. You can well afford to fast one dinner and supper for the bed and breakfast and what you may get out of the institute. Don't fail to go, Sunday Schools send your pastor, or superintendent. Yours for the institute.

A Letter From Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 30, 1907.
Mr. S. M. Jenkins, Marion, Ky.:
Dear Sir:—I am living in the land of Dixie now and think that it is a grand old place. It is summer time down here now, we have not had any weather cold enough to remind me of old Kentucky. I received the dear old Press and was sure glad to get it, please do not fail to send it every week as it is just like a letter from home. I have met lots of people down here from Marion. I called on Miss Rosa and Morris Schwab a few days ago, they both have nice positions.

Well about all a stranger sees in Memphis is negroes, mules and cotton and street cars.

I go out nearly every day and take a look at the Mississippi river. It is already awful high and is still rising. Well I got to see the man walking the Mississippi river. It was sure real amusing to watch him walk along on top of the water.

I will close hoping the Press and its many readers a happy and prosperous year. I am your truly,
CRAWFORD BUCHANAN.

TEXAS LANDS.

Canyon City, Tex., Jan. 10, 1907.

DEAR EDITOR—Will you permit me to say to your readers, a few things about our country. When I was in old Crittenden last June on a visit for my first time since leaving there in 1875 I was very forcibly impressed with the need of many of your citizens, seeking a new country and doing so at once.

I recall the instance of old uncle Ed McLeskey, in 1874, selling out there and moving to Texas by wagon, resulted in my father following suit the next year. Also Silas McMurray, Frank Crane, John Zimmerman and others.

I shall always bless the day that uncle turned this way. We settled in Erath county, Texas, and remained there on one tract of land until ten years ago when I moved to this country. After trying the plains I really feel as though I have lost the 21 years spent in Erath county, for there it required so much expenditure of money and labor to prepare the land for the plow while here it is already clear, absolutely no obstructions level, and no floods to wash away the soil.

I have been engaged more or less for the last five years in buying and selling lands and cattle, I do not recall to mind a single instance where the man to whom I sold land has not either sold or can sell at a fancy profit. Example—Four years ago I sold a section of land 6 miles of Canyon to W. P. Orr, of Stephenville, Texas., at $2.75 per acre, he has not expended a dollar on it except for taxes (this is only $10 per section per year) and he has refused ten dollars per acre. I sold a section last spring (to Mr. Mercer, of Iowa,) four miles from Canyon City where I live at $14 per acre and he now refuses $20 per acre. I can furnish many other such instances.

Real estate of all kinds have greatly advanced and will yet advance even more rapidly; for this country is just now beginning to attract attention abroad, and the eyes of the world are turned this way. Poor men are seeking a country where it is possible for them to own their homes while men of wealth are looking for investment; and they know that for a safe and sure one nothing beats good lands. I am a land agent but am sincere in all that I have said. I invite you to come and investigate and you will find that it is even better than I have represented.

The average yield of wheat last year (1906) was 24 bushels per acre in my county (and in some instances it yielded 49 bushels per acre) and sold at an average price of 70 cents per bushel. These choice lands every foot tillable, can be bought now from $10 to $25 per acre. Come to see us and we will verify all we have said.

COPHER-FERRELL

Miss Atta Copher and Mr. Orville Ferrell, Married Feb. 11th.

LEFT TUESDAY FOR HARRISBURG, ILL.

One of the greatest surprises of the season was the marriage of Miss Anna Copher to Mr. Orville Ferrell, Monday evening Feb. 11th, 1907, at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's father, Rev. Virgil Elgin, officiating.

A few of the neighbors and Miss Copher's immediate friends were present.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. W. H. Copher, of this city, and has won many admirers by her quiet and unassuming manner. She has host of friends here who regret to give her up.

Mr. Ferrell is of the firm of Patterson and Ferrell, in Harrisburg, Ill. He is a very prosperous and promising young man, and we feel that he is certainly to be congratulated upon winning Miss Copher for his bride.

They left Tuesday morning for Harrisburg, where they will make their home.

The PRESS RECORD extends congratulations and best wishes.

CHURCH NOTES

The sermon at the Presbyterian church last Sunday was on the text found in Isaiah 62:2. "Thou shalt be called by a new name, which the mouth of the Lord shall name." The subject was to show the great advantage of being named after the Savior of the world.

The name of a man has much to do with his life and especially that of the Christian. Paul said "Let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity." 2 Tim. 2:19.

Frequently men say that they are not Christians, thinking it is an honor to be reckoned among those who deny Christ. In the last day it will make all the difference what a man's name is.

The question that decides our eternal fate is whether or not we are named after the name of Christ. If we have the name of Christ stamped upon us, we will be saved by Christ. If not we will be eternally lost.

Next Sunday a protracted meeting will begin at the Baptist church. Dr. W. D. Powell, of Louisville, State Evangelist, will assist, and do the preaching. The public invited.

IMPOSSIBLE TO TEACH A SUMMER NORMAL

Unavoidable Circumstances Have Arisen That Makes it Impossible for Prof.

V. G. Kee to Teach

TEACHERS MAY ENTER HIGH SCHOOL

Prof. Kee authorizes us to say that circumstances have arisen that render it impossible for him to teach a normal this summer. If there are any young teachers who are depending on this, rather than have them disengaged, they may enter the High School now and he will arrange for them work suited to their needs by allowing them to omit the Latin, but no regular course in pedagogy can be undertaken. He is willing to instruct on Saturdays any who are disposed to enter under the conditions. Of course, he would gladly give regular teachers' training work now if the crowded condition of the school permitted. But the Superintendent and Board of Education deem it best not to undertake teachers' training work during the regular session.

This Year a Record Breaker

Since last report there has been eight new students at Marion Graded Schools, making a grand total 491. Last year the enrollment for the year only reached 485. So this year will easily be a record breaker. Prof. Kee has the promise of a number of new students right away and thinks he will enroll 500.

DYCUSBURG.

Mrs. Nora Manns who resides one and a half miles from town is dangerously ill. Drs. T. L. Phillips, of Dycesburg, Dorroh, of Kelsey, and Wilford, of Kuttawa, are the attending physicians. She is one of the most attractive and highly esteemed ladies in our community and many anxiously wait for tidings concerning her precarious condition. A beautiful baby girl is one of the special charges of those who attend her bedside.

Married at Lynnville, Feb. 6th, Miss Minnie Wheeler, of that place, and Mr. Percy Brasher, of Crittenden county. The bride and groom are at home to their friends at their home near Dycesburg.

Married at Metropolis, Ill., Feb. 6th, 1907, Mr. Robt. Steele, eldest son of Mr. Geo. Steele, postmaster at Dycesburg, and Miss Cash, of Lyon county. The wedding was in the nature of a surprise to their friends here.

Mrs. Dora Charles and children are visiting Mrs. Fannie Charles at Tiline.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Dycesburg Methodist Church will give a Valentine Bazaar at the City Hall the evening of the 14th. Some of the best taste and talent of the country will contribute to the occasion and indications are auspicious.

Rev. Jas. Oliver was with his congregation at the Baptist church Saturday and Sunday.

Our popular young cashier of the Dycesburg Bank has been at his post every day since he was so seriously wounded in the bank two weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pickering and Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Martin have removed to the old Pickering home.

Mrs. J. M. Graves is on the sick list.

S. H. Cassidy is seriously ill this week.

Mrs. Turley and son, Corbet, were guests of Mrs. Longston last week.

Raymond, little son of J. R. Pleasant, was quite sick this week.

M. B. Charles, of Mississippi, spent several days with relatives here last week. On his return to Mississippi he expects to enter upon his duties at Brookhaven as bank cashier and will not possibly find it convenient to visit Dycesburg friends and relatives soon again.

John Hill and family, of Bowling Green, visited relatives here last week.

Miss Lula Wheeler and Mr. Willard Montgomery have entered college at Bowling Green.

The witnesses who attended the examining trial at Marion Monday, resulted in varied experiences and the town was almost depopulated.

Chas. Bennett is indisposed.

Mr. Val Frasier and son passed down on the St. Burtoff Sunday enroute to Paducah with tobacco.

Marriage License.

John I. Gasaway to Nancy Jane Farley.

Jessie Alvis to Nanie A. Campbell.

Hugh Wilborn to Johnie Fritts.

DIES IN MINNESOTA

Former Crittenden County Girl Passes Away At St. Paul Minn.

DAUGHTER OF MR. M. T. WORLEY

Mrs. Lewis J. Schuman, St. Paul, Minn., died Tuesday Feb. 12th, 1907. The death was very unexpected and the news was received by her father, M. T. Worley, in shape of telegram containing the announcement, but no details.

Mrs. Schuman was before her marriage Miss Annie Worley, of this county. She was married four years ago since which time she has resided in St. Paul where her husband is a brick mason and a fine workman. She was thirty-one years of age and leaves besides her husband two little girls. She professed religion at Crooked Creek several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Worley have the sympathy of every one in the loss of their last daughter. Gilbert and Charley Worley are Mrs. Schuman's brothers. James M. Gilbert, of this county, is her grandfather. Rowe Gilbert is her uncle.

WHERE BABY WENT

Mistake of Farmer's Wife Who Thought Bear Was Husband.

Afton, Va., Feb. 5.—Mrs. James Ingram, wife of a young farmer, lost her infant in a fearful manner a few days ago. It was agreed that her husband should meet her at a fence near a small body of woods, take their child and accompany her to the home of a neighbor, where there was to be a dance. When the young woman reached the fence she saw a figure dimly outlined on the other side. Believing it to be her husband she handed the child over as she climbed the lower panel.

To her amazement the figure disappeared without a word, taking the baby with it. frantic with fear, she called her husband, whom she met coming toward the fence. The alarm was given and a search made, but nothing could be found except the tracks towards the mountains. There is no doubt but that the bear devoured the child.

Even From The Mountains

Pittsburgh, Feb. 9.—Special.—The late Capt. S. S. Brown, noted horseman and coal operator, was worth at the time of his death, $3,000,000 instead of $15,000,000, as was reported at this time. This was learned to-day by the filing of the first account by the executors of the estate, W. Harry Brown and the Union Trust Company.

Several startling features marked the accounting. The libraries, at the city and country homes of the deceased, which he estimated were worth $50,000 are appraised at only $133, while the famous Astoria Cup, won by Capt. Brown's racing stable, is valued at only $50. The cup and libraries were bequeathed to Miss Lewis, who has since married a man named Porter, one of Capt. Brown's betting commissioners. Miss Lewis also inherited thirty bonds of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company, for accepting which she was forced to resign as a Sabbath-School teacher in the Mary S. Brown Memorial Chapel. These bonds are valued by the executors at $33,000. Sixty shares of stock in the Latonia race track were sold by the executors for $15,440 while 240 shares in the Memphis Jockey Club brought $15,550. The stock in the Lexington track has been retained, it is said, by Harry Brown who also continues the racing stable of his deceased brother.

Each man's destiny is in his own hands so far as his moral progress is concerned. If a man is going to be a thief, circumstances may determine whether it is his destiny to escape punishment or to be caught, but the man decides for himself the all important question whether he will be a thief. And so circumstances may determine how much profit or how little profit a country can find in a policy of imperialism, but the country itself must decide—the people or those whom the people permit to speak for them—what the policy of the country will be—Destiny is indeed the dark apology for many national errors.—The Commoner.

OLIE JAMES

Secures Appropriation That Will Greatly Benefit Our Farmers.

Representative Olie James, of this district, secured in the Lower House of Congress last week an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill whereby part of the $150,000 fund appropriated for examination of examination of insects destructive of agriculture is given for purpose of investigating tobacco worms and insects injurious tobacco.

The house, after a speech from Mr. James on the subject and regardless of the opposition of chairman of the committee, Mr. Wadsworth, sustained Mr. James and included tobacco insects in the investigation.

Mr. James said that tobacco growers in Western Kentucky and Tennessee, to which the amendment applies, are already hampered by the government placing a tax of 6 cents a pound on leaf tobacco, which enables the trusts control the markets.

He said that he made his appeal in behalf of the tobacco growers of the Dark Tobacco region, and thought it only justice that part of the appropriation should be used for their relief.

CONSOLIDATION.

For business reasons the Editors of The CRITTENDEN PRESS and The Crittenden Record have agreed on a consolidation of the two papers; all subscriptions to both papers will be filled by the CRITTENDEN PRESS-RECORD which will be issued each Thursday, except where two papers heretofore have gone to one family, in the future one copy will be sent and full credit given. The PRESS-RECORD will be edited by the editors of the PRESS and RECORD, S. M. Jenkins and Geo. M. Crider, each of them will continue to do everything in his power to for the promotion of the welfare of Marion and contiguous territory, in a moral as well as a business way.

By consolidating the lists we will be able to issue from 3500 to 4000 copies and give our advertisers double circulation at no additional cost. We are in better position than ever to do the neatest job work quickly, and at reasonable prices.

Having more time to see after details Mr. Candidate visited his wood pile and observed some things minutely.

It was not long until the Lad presented him with a bill for $4.00 for wood. The candidate feeling a certain sort of freedom he had not felt in months, said

"See here, Sherman, how can I owe you $4.00 for wood. I paid you $5.00 for wood not over three weeks ago, and besides that last wood you brought was green and the sticks too short."

Sherman removed his left hand from the table and placed it on his hip and leaned with his right hand on the table and said. "Mr. Candidate, if I have made any mistakes in this wood business, they have been errors of the head and not of the heart."

As the four planks rattled in Sherman's hand he made a short bow and with a sort of pigeon wing side-step toward the door, said:

"I thank you."

A man of enormous proportions is Mr. Minnehan. He travels out of Evansville, and has been making Marion for several years. In proportion to his size is his capacity for hard work. One bitter cold morning not long ago he sat at meat at the table of Quint Conyers. Casting aside the napkin for the last time he majestically swept toward the door.

"Mr. Minnehan," chirruped the star boarder, "you must feel mighty comfortable this kind of weather."

The undulating motion ceased and Mr. Minnehan replied. "No, I don't, I am an extremist. I get hotter than anybody in summer and colder than anybody in winter. I buy the heaviest underclothes and the lightest sold, and am always too hot or too cold. I am an unfortunate.

You know Jess Olive? Which Jess? There are two of course. One is big Jess and the other little Jess. The one we refer to is little Jess. One day he sat in school. He was some smaller than he is now.

The teacher asked the question, What is a hero? Not a hand went up. The teacher asked again, What is a hero? This time there was one hand in the air. Master Jesse Olive will answer the question, said the teacher. "A hero is a married man," said little Jess.

Phil Debo took a pink card from his postoffice box and between spits he slowly read, "Ask for package, too large for box. Please return this card." He stuck the card through the bars and when the clerk handed him one package said. "Well, where is the other package, that card said there two?"

Jack Robinson is not without a vein of true humor. When solicited to tell ye scribe a yarn he replied,

"Can't do it. I have quit telling them," and as he spoke there passed through his countenance an unmistakable tremor indicating unexpressed amusement. Sherman Clark sat not five feet away on an empty cracker box with his left foot on the floor and his hands clasped in front of his right knee rocking back and forth, which movement together with the curve of his back, gave a realistic impression of a rolling wagon wheel.

The reply of Jack Robinson caused Sherman's head to go back and his mouth to gape and as he realized the full force of what Jack said he fell off the box.

We all remember the month of January 1907. The doings of January have been fixed in the minds of all. One of our humble citizens met Bill Graves along about the time January was winding up her capers and this is what Bill said

"Did you ever see such weather in all your born days? I'll be horn-wiggled if it don't beat any January I ever saw and I'll bet I've seen a thousand."

Snow, Snow, Beautiful Snow.

"Snow, snow, beautiful snow." THE RECORD has run short of poetry. Notice is hereby given to Bobby Sprite, Sally Alley, Rustic, Nemo, O. G. W. and Oh Gee Whillkins that we are out of poetry and need some very bad. Take "Snow, snow, beautiful snow" for a subject and the RECORD will give a prize to the first poet who gives us a few lines of good old fashioned home spun poetry. This offer is open to all comers, light weight and heavy weight and also any red ham and gravy poet who desires to compete.

Friend George:—One cold day, just after the last snow storm, one of my neighbors was complaining because he had to go out the night before in the storm to get some milk, and some one asked him why he did not send his son Jim. "Oh, there's fifty reasons why I didn't send him." On being told that he couldn't give one reason, much less, he answered, "Well, to begin with, he wouldn't go."

"Under the circumstances, you yourself, undividually, collectively, politically or religiously, or otherwise, wouldn't have gone. Would You? No." "Beautiful Snow" in mine, you bet!"

SPRING.

The days grow longer, The sun grows stronger,

The plants in the window—how they grow!

They seem to listen,

Their bright eyes glisten,

And what they're hearing I think

I know.

The spring that's coming,

The brown bees humming,

The sweet warm winds of an April day.

While snows are drifting,

The scene is shifting,

The "beautiful snow" is not long to stay.

Yours for ever, (as the piercing wintery winds and the zero temperature will permit.)

A Poet's Corner In Valentines

By ROBERTUS LOVE

were filled with valentines. One of the merchants told me this was the best valentine market in North Dakota; and everybody bought and sent valentines, from the baby to the oldest inhabitant. What can be the matter?"

A glimmer of intelligence pervaded the poet's countenance.

"Valentines all snow bound, like us," he ventured. " Didn't get in before the blizzard, I guess."

Then a light that never was on sea or land illumined the features of the chalk talker. He struck an attitude that was striking indeed.

"Bard," he cried, his voice vibrant with a vast joy. "Here's an idea that will get us out of the hole and out of town if the snow ever melts!"

"I don't see it," dolefully replied the poet.

"Huh! St Valentine's day only four days off and not a valentine in town. Bubbles bawl for valentines. Girls giggle for 'em. Men mourn for 'em. You're a poet. I'm an artist. You write serious poetry—sentimental stuff; also funny poetry. I draw fancy pictures; also bound and broke. Either chin would hold him for some days to come. To get out of town he had first to get out of his hotel by paying his bill. This, however, was a delicate secret which he had no intention of sharing with his landlord, who looked upon him as a celebrity. But getting out of town was impossible even to multimillionaire. The railroads were tightly tied up in all directions by vast drifts of packed snow in the deep cuts, and the snow was still falling and still drifting.

It was not his own fault that the poet and the funny man was friendless. He had counted upon reaching the next town and collecting a fat fee for an entertainment which he was to give there before his money gave out. Now, he knew that he would miss his date and that he must "Jump" 400 mortal miles to his next engagement, and he must buy railroad transportation for the jump. The poet was melancholy over his prospects, and even the funny man was feeling almost blue. It is a handy thing to be a funny man as well as a poet, for the ability to appreciate the humor of a situation—well, that helps some.

But now the funny part was all buried, like the trains in the snow packed ruts, and it was only the melancholy poet who sat in the office of the Grand Central Hotel and looked blue. Nonsensically he glanced at the big calendar above the clerk's desk. The letters on the sheet read, "February 10."

"Huh!" the poet grunted. "Close to St. Valentine's day, but I guess there'll be no valentine for me. Wires all down. Can't get in touch with the lecture bureau or anybody else for the touch" that I so long for. I'm here for a week anyhow if this snow keeps up and just 30 cents in my pocket. Well, I feel like 30 cents." And here the funny man came up to the surface for a brief airing.

Just then a long haired individual wearing a wasp waisted overcoat that reached from ears to heels entered the hotel office and walked up to read the names on the register.

"Hiuh!" he ejaculated. Then he strode over to the poet and extended a long, lean arm tipped with truly professional fingers.

"I have the honor," he said, "to greet the distinguished poet and humorist, Mr. James Alexander Bard; recognizing you by your lithographs. I'm Black Birdhead Beings in Blank, talk artist. Snow bound here missed all my dates for a month, seen!"

"I recognize you also by your lithographs, Mr. Blank; glad to meet you" said the poet.

"Brothers in distress," remarked the chalk talker.

"Truly," assented the poet, with keeper meaning.

"My distress, however, is deeper than yours, I imagine," said the chalk talker in a confidential undertone. "Fact is, Mr. Bard, I'm dead broke, and if you could manage to let me have"—

"Only too happy, Mr. Blank, but," skewed in an undertone, glancing sideways at the smiling hotel clerk across

"Up here we're celebrities." In the room, "I have 30 cents and a postage stamp. Might let you have the stamp."

"Funny situation," said the chalk talker.

"Awfully," agreed the funny man, laughing a muffled, mournful laugh. "What are we going to do about it, Blank?" anxiously inquired the poet, with a long face.

"Oh, we'll see. Let's take a look around town."

Arm in arm the two platform entertainers went out into the whirling, swirling, sweeping snow. They strode down the main street—persons of their profession, you know, always striding and glanced into the store windows.

"By Jove! Not a valentine on sale in the whole blessed burg!" exclaimed the chalk talker. "Why, I was here last year about this time, and the stores

But Yet A Woman

By TOM MASSON

[Copyright, 1907, by Tom Masson.]

A he put his arm around her, while his hand clasped hers and he held her so close that her fair hair brushed his forehead, he said:

"My dearest, I have been thinking over our wedding trip and trying to plan the details so that you will get the most out of it. Quite appropriately, we shall start on St. Valentine's day. We shall not hurry, but go as the whim seizes us, and you can choose your own route—London, Paris, Rome, the Rhine, anywhere you say."

And she replied, looking far off, with a certain wistful gaze:

"What do I care about all that, dear, so long as I know that you love me?"

Then he went away and pondered over this admission, thinking from the depths of his man's experience that it was not quite right somehow. It did not seem so human, so girl-like, as he had been taught to expect. And the next night he came again and said:

"Darling, when we are married we shall have a home—a real, true home. And you shall furnish it yourself, dear, just as you want it. Nothing shall be denied you. Money shall be no object."

And she replied very simply:

"Ah, my dearest, what does all that matter so long as I know that you love me?"

And again he pondered her reply and asked himself if this, after all, was the ideal love that his heart so craved. It seemed too good to be true. And once again he came back and said:

"My heart's own, you would like two homes, I know, one in the city and one in the country, and horses and servants and jewels and all that makes life beautiful. All these shall be yours."

And she smiled gayly as she replied:

"As if I cared, dearest! As you love me, all my heart is satisfied."

And again he pondered her reply and asked himself if this, after all, was the ideal love that his heart so craved. It seemed too good to be true. And once again he came back and said:

"The man went away again, pondering more deeply, for still he was not satisfied. "One more test," he exclaimed. So the next night he said:

"Dear, I find that I have given you a wrong impression. Careful examina-

BLANK DREW VALENTINES, HARD WROTE VALENTINE POEMS.

Funny pictures. My managers call me 'the lighting artist.' Are you lighting poet?"

"Well, you know I got my reputation by writing a column of verses every day for a newspaper."

"Sure. Now, listen. Here's the biggest motion store in town. We'll see the merchant—how's this for a big notion?—and give him a corner."

"A what? This store is already on a corner."

"On, say! Shake the kinks out of your intellect, Bard. We'll give this corner store merchant a corner on valentines!"

"A corner—on valentines?"

"Yes—poet's corner, so to speak. See? You write the poetry. I'll draw the pictures. See the possibilities? You mud I don't cut much of a figure down in the big cities, but up here we're celebrities. Notice how the people are standing out here in the snowstorm to get a look at us?"

"The'd due to your long hair."

"We'll sign these valentines, some of them," the chalk talker continued, drawing the poet's thirst. "Mr. Merchant will advertise the thing in the newspapers, and we'll make more money out of it than we could get out of a dozen platform dates. See?"

At last the poet saw, with the aid of the funny man.

The conspirators entered the store. Half an hour later they emerged, each carrying a triple copy of a contract which assured him a third share in the profits of the venture. The merchant was to serve as press agent, do the advertising, keep mum as to the contract and let them do the rest.

Four busy nights and days followed for Messrs. Bard and Blank in their rooms at the hotel. Blank drew valentines and Bard wrote valentine poems by the hundreds.

By the morning of Feb. 11 the whole town was aware and agog. It was an event in epoch. The two daily papers carrying full page advertisements, vied with each other in giving free news space to the novel experiment.

"The celebrated poet and artist," editorially remarked one of the papers, "have kindly consented to see that this town, in spite of the distressing storm, shall not go valentinesless. Art and genius come to the aid of love. They are indeed our friends in need."

When the funny man in a moment's respite from the poet's terrible labors glanced at this quill he doubled up with laughter.

"We are indeed in need," he said softly, "but they don't know it, and if Mr. Merchant keeps his agreement they won't."

As the valentines fell like autumn leaves from pen and pencil they were displayed in the big show windows. The sale was like a bargain rush. Toward the last the autograph valentines were auctioned off. The bidding was most spirited. One of the poet's most touching quatrains, written and signed in exactly two minutes, on a big sheet, with a red heart drawn and signed by the chalk talker in thirty seconds, was knocked down to the town's most eligible bachelor for $30. A "comic" which hit the fancy of the new postmaster because he perceived that it would "hit" his late hated rival went for $7.50.

And a train got in the day after St. Valentine's! As poet and chalk talker paid their bills from the $27.10 which each received as his share of the proceeds from this nefarious scheme the funny man came out boldly from temporary retirement and inurnured softly:

"O poesy, what crimes are committed in thy name!"

WANTED TO RIDE.

A Sketch, Written for the Herald
low Kentuckian

You tell last Birdsall I'm going to kill him the next time we come face to face.

Birdsall was given the rifle, and returned this reply: "And tell Dr. Clay or he had better have his eyes open for I'll be prepared for him when we meet."

Such was the word passed by two men prominent in Kentucky neighborhood, through a friend of both.

For weeks the two carried guns in good shooting condition, ready for firing on the spur of the moment. Friends on either side kept the two out of each other's sight.

But on a summer's morning while Birdsall was coming from town to see Clayton coming along the road.

Both were horseback. Birdsall was pale and cold, for the time the crucial moment had come, when the stowest man would be shot.

They were a hundred yards apart. The horses walked. Each man looked straight ahead with his eyes at his enemy.

Slowly the distance between them grew less, until they looked each other squarely in the face, only ten feet apart. With eyes cold and hard each man watched the other's right hand which rested in his coat pocket.

Each was waiting for the other to move even an inch, and then the firing would begin.

The horses were not up to each other. Both men rose in their saddles, ready to draw their guns. Just at that moment a young girl came through the bushes with a basket of blackberries, and walked toward Lat. Birdsall, her father, saying "Oh, pap, let me ride behind you home! I'm so tired. I've walked all over these old fields."

The horses never stopped, and Lat. Clayton raised his hat as his animal jogged along.

Dock Hocks, the leader sung and all the way through kept a note behind so that the crowd could hear him good. Miss Fruzie Mump carried the tinner part, and got so high that the owls roosting in the loft had to move.

Mr. Smith's drove of dawgs were very frightened last night when they heard a strange something up a tree near the Gander Creek bridge, and would not go near until Fit went and got his shot gun. An attempt was then made to capture it and both Fit and the dawgs were greatly surprised when it turned out to be Tobe Moseley. When he climbed down he had a sack across his shoulder that contained a side of meat. It was after midnight and Fit refused to explain away the circumstantial evidence.

Discussion will take place at the Ford church Monday and Tuesday on the following question. The earth was only about 600 years when the flood came, (as is gathered from the 8th chap., 13th verse, 18) how was it that Seth, who a pleasure to tell our readers about a Cough Cure like Dr. Shoop's. For Dr. Shoop has fought against Opium, Chloroform, or other unsafe ingredients commonly found in Cough remedies.

Dr. Shoop it seems, has well used the Pure Food and Drug Law recently enacted, for he has worked along similar lines for many years. For nearly 20 years Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure containers have had a warning printed on them against Opium and other narcotic poisons. He has thus made it possible for mothers to protect their children by simply insisting on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by Haynes & Taylor.

The 2 Hogs.

[Children's Story from Hogwallow, Kentucky.]

One day two hogs met in the road. Hogs as a rule do not talk much, outside of fables, so this must be one.

"Why are you so much fatter and finer looking than me," said the runt hog.

"Well," replied the fine looking hog, "I am just naturally a better grade of hog. You are nothing but a common razor-back animal, from descendants raised on acorns and pumpkins, while my ancestors were fed on swill from the fine hotel."

"Well, I guess you are right,"

said the scrub hog with a sob, "but I certainly wish I could put up as swell an appearance as you do. Now even if I was slick and fat I'd have to go and disgrace myself by rooting up somebody's potato patch, and when my temper got the least bit aroused the hair down on my back would rise up like a yellow dog's."

The scrub hog was low spirited—disgusted with itself—and after the fine hog had strolled away, it went over and laid down in a mud hole. "Well, there's one consolation. The fine hog can't get the comfort out of a mud hole that I can for he'd spoil his looks while a coat of mud improves me by hiding my spare ribs and backbones."

At last hog-killing time, which is truly the judgment day in the hog world, came, and the fine hog and the scrub one stood side by side, when the owner passed judgment.

"Well men, kill this big black one. He'll weigh three hundred. And this razor back, well turn him in the corn field. He's not fat enough to kill."

Moral: Cheer up.

Safe, Sure and Speedy.

No external remedy ever yet devised has so fully and unquestionably met these three prime conditions as successful as Allcock's Plasters. They are safe because they contain no deleterious drug and are manufactured upon certain principals of medicine. They are sure because nothing goes into them except ingredients which are adapted to the purposes for which a patient required. They are speedily effective because their medicinal qualities goes right to their medicinal qualities goes right to their reducing pain and restoring the natural and healthy performance of function of muscles, nerves and skin.

Allcock's Plasters are the original and genuine porous plasters and like most meritorious articles have been extensively imitated, therefore always make sure and get the genuine Allcock's.

says G. G. Haan a prominent business man of Buff Mo. that Bucklen's Amica Salve is the quickest and easiest healing salve ever applied to a sore, burn or wound, or to a case of piles. I've used it and know what I'm talking about." Quoted by J. H. Orme Druggist 20c.

Gas Pipes of Paper.

Gas pipes of paper are being made in France. Manila paper is cut into strips equal to the length of the pipes to be made. They are then placed in a receiver filled with melted asphalt and wrapped around a core of iron until the desired thickness is reached. After being submitted to a strong pressure, the paper is coated with sand, cooled, the core withdrawn and the outer pipe surface covered with a waterproof preparation. It is claimed that these pipes are good as, and more economical than, metal ones.

A CONDENSED ROMANCE.

[A Sketch, Written for the Hog-wallow Kentuckian.]

And it came to happen that a young woman's lover went to a far away land and remained so long that he became married to another.

The young and forsaken woman grieved a long year or two, and then decided it was better to be married badly than not at all, and she got ready to embrace the first chance.

Presently an old man came along and she accidentally smiled at him, and he wanted her to become his wife. Then closely following came another one, who was young and good to look at, but he was poor—why, he hadn't have over sixty cents to save his soul, while the old man had great wealth.

"Oh!" she hissed to her image in the mirror. "I must marry! That's a foregone determination. Now which shall it be? I love neither, but like them both. And I think I would be acting a mighty fool if I choose the moneyless man. I'll take the old fellow! He cannot live long and after he has done the Supreme Shuffle I'll still be a fascinating young lady, with my nest warmly feathered with kale-seed, and then I'll wait and wait—and who knows? my own lover may stray back to me again."

Well anyway, she married the old gentleman, and he was tickled nearly to death.

They both lived, however, and after a lapse of time equal to ten years had passed, the young wife stretched out and died. The old man lived happily onward and succeeded in marrying again.

Bile Poison

has a very bad effect on your system. It disorders your stomach and digestive apparatus, taints your blood and causes constipation, with all its fearfulness.

"No," said Ardupp, "I never blow my own horn."

"Find it difficult to raise the wind, eh?" said Birdkin.

Neglected Colds Threaten Life

"Don't trifle with a cold," is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in the case of a child. Proper food, good ventilation, and dry, warm clothing are the proper safeguards against colds. If they are maintained through the changeable weather of autumn, winter and spring, the chances of a cold from ordinary colds will be slight. But the ordinary light cold will become severe if neglected, and a well established ripe cold is to the germs of diphtheria what honey is to the bee. The greatest menace to child life at this season of the year is the neglected cold. Whether it is a child or adult, the cold slight or severe, the very best treatment that can be adopted is to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is safe and sure. The great popularity and immense sale of this preparation has been attained by its remarkable cures of this ailment. A cold never results in pneumonia when it is given. For sale by Haynes & Taylor.

In 1570 Queen Elizabeth was presented with a pair of silk stockings by her fire-woman and afterward never wore any other kind.

A Card

This is to certify that all druggists are authorized to refund you money if Foley's Honey and Tar falls to cure your cough or cold. It stops the cough, heals the lungs and prevents serious results from a cold. Cures la grippe cough and prevents pneumonia and consumption. Contains no opiates. The genuine is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. J. H. Orme.

Deceived.

"I never was so unhappy in all my life."

"It's Dr. Sawyer, the mean old thing. He is deceiving me. He said my husband needed a rest, and advised California."

"Yes?"

"Well, I spoke about my Cousin Gertrude being out there, and suggested that it would be nice for George and me to go together for a good long stay."

"Then the doctor got mysterious, and said: 'Go back to work, George. It isn't rest that you need after all.' There's something queer about the case. I'm awfully worried, and they won't tell me the truth."

A BITTER SPEECH.

Hillary K. Adair, a western detective, replied to the toast "Detectives" at a dinner in Omaha.

"Speeches pregnant with meaning often help the detective in his delicate work," said Mr. Adair. "Often a speech of eight or ten words will reveal volumes."

"Thus I once knew how things stood in a Milwaukee house when I heard a Milwaukee woman say to her husband, 'Jim, do you know you talk in your sleep?' and the man replied, 'Well, do you begrudge me those few words?' —Philadelphia Bulletin.

"WHISKY" COLD CURES.

Danger of Using Alcoholic Mixtures or Coal Tar Tablets.

Laying aside all moral objections against filling up the system with whisky or drugs because one has a cold or cold, the dangerous physical effects should be sufficient to keep one from using these strong medicines.

A thoroughly scientific way to treat a cold and cold as well as a sensible method is to breathe Hyomei through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit. The first breath of its healing medication relieves the irritation, and its continued use soon effects a thorough cure.

The best people in—always keep Hyomei in the house during the winter months, at the first symptoms of a cold or bronchial trouble, use the remedies, and prevent serious and lasting illness. The guarantee that—a—give with every Hyomei outfit should convince you of its curative powers. A complete Hyomei outfit cost but $1.00, extra bottles if needed 50c, and—a—guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

the most complete example of the results possible by the scientific application of electricity to art. The famous White City, Chicago World's Fair, afforded a splendid example, the Buffalo Exposition marked another advance, but at Luna Park and at Dreamland the builders have brought the art of electrical illumination to the highest degree of perfection it ever has known. Combined, they have been classed as the eighth wonder of the world, and the distinction is merit.

When Luna Park was built it was said it never would pay its owners, and the undertaking was certainly a great risk as it involved the expenditure of nearly two million dollars before a single cent was paid near the gate. But the people came and Luna Park has been made bigg'er every season, and it has created a new standard in the amusement world. When the builders of Dreamland announced their intention to build another great amusement resort, almost at Luna Park's doors, persons, who thought they knew, said there was no room for two great places shows had prospered. The clean attractions have made good, and the public has been awakened to the opinion that clean attractions of real artistic merit were what they wanted. In Luna Park and in Dreamland there has never been an attraction offered for public favor that depended on a questionable feature, ~~but~~ ^{by allowing the} paying proposition. that is too important to be ignored. The conceptions of geniuses have found an opportunity at Coney Island, and art and science have been called upon, with lavish hands to make every detail appear in its best light.

The greatest spectacle of modern times was probably the Indian Durbar at Delhi, when the wealth and splendors of the Empire of India was marched in review in honor of the coronation of King Edward. Thompson and Dundy realized the universal interest in this event and at Luna Park presented a copy of the spectacle which completeness in every detail and wondrous way of reproduction excited the of the artistic world and elicited applause from hundreds of thousands of delighted people who nightly filled a vast amphitheatre devoted to the spectacle.

Just what this feature of one season at Luna Park cost its producers may never be known, but they made it pay and constantly improved and elaborated it during the seasons it was produced. Attractions on the order of "Creation" and "The Deluge" cost a small fortune, and the original production of "Fighting the Flames" required the services of a regiment of men, women and children. The fire fighting force was led by one of the most famous of New York's fire chiefs, and under his charge a body of trained athletes gave the most realistic and spectacular performance of its kind that was ever

While Thompson & Dundy's Lun Park and Dreamland have been doing their work in the reformation of Coney Island, their efforts would have been seriously impeded if it had not been for the presence of the number of attractions covering a somewhat smaller space, but embodying all of the elements of novelty and ingenuity that characterized the best features of either Lun Park or Dreamland.

Principal among these attractions is Mr. E. J. Austen's "Johnstown Flood," which has been one of the real features of Coney Island for several seasons. It was first produced at the Buffalo Ex- land. Mr. Austen is one of the most popular amusements of the present generation. It is out that wonderful a

at from the Coney
unlike any other has a charm of elevated and to this world. All New York goes to Coney Island. The magnate of Wall Street forgets that there are bulls and bears as he shoots the chutes or rides on the scenic railway. The denizen of the lower East Side rubs elbows with the magnate, but they have an object in common and meet on equal terms. Both are bettered by the contact, for one's nature is at its best when one is amused.

The popularity that Coney Island has for New Yorkers may be realized when the size of the crowds is considered.
For the past two seasons the number of visitors on Saturdays when the weather was favorable averaged over 300, 000 persons, while on occasions like the Fourth of July and Labor Day censuses estimated fixed the number at over 500,000, taxing the full capacity of every method of transportation afforded by the city, which has the most extensive and comprehensive system of transit in the world.

New York leads the nation in many respects, and in no one more than in the amusement line, for all that is new in that line seeks the approval of the New York public, and after that has been secured there is little doubt of its success, for there is no more critical or cosmopolitan public anywhere than in New York City. Other cities have built resorts on similar lines to those followed in the new Coney Island, and at this time there are nearly two thousand amusement parks in successful operation, many of them having smaller reproductions of the features that have made Coney Island famous.

At each of these resorts the management tries to secure the best possible feature, and in this way Coney Island has had a national effect on amusement enterprises, and has bred a taste for attractions that are high in class and in instruction. Everywhere there is a steady demand for novelty, something new, something bigger, better and grander than before, and the demand must be supplied. The best work of talented hands is constantly called for, and the ingenuity of the inventor is taxed to the utmost to meet the emergency.

And there is money in it for the men who have combined the work of the electrician, the architect and the mechanic. Fortunes have been made and new fortunes await the man who gives the public something that will bring pleasure; diversions no longer meet the demand of the public, for the American pride asks for instruction as well as diversion, and the antics of a clown no longer make a circus any more than a tiny-go-round, a cane rack and a frankfurter stand enclosed in a fence constitute an amusement park. The eye must be pleased and above all the attraction must be clean and wholesome.

Coney Island, with Luna Park and Dreamland cannot be transported from place to place, but every season has witnessed a decided step forward in the development of the amusement resort idea as seen in other cities. The latest feature in the plan is to furnish such attractions as have been recognized as leaders to amusement parks in the small cities where an attraction will be given for a run of four to eight weeks, and then moved to another city in a circuit modeled on the lines similar to the great theatrical circuits. New shows in this way will be provided for the patrons of each city, and the attractions will be constantly changing.

The popularity of and the profit to be derived from such attractions as E. J.
Austen's "Johnstown Flood" is indicated by the fact that during the Buffalo Exposition it brought its owners $16,000.
It was then taken to Coney Island, and in three seasons cleared $90,000 over all expenses, making a grand total of $257, 000. Mr. Austen's "Galveston Flood" has also been a money maker, and his two productions, "Creation" and "From New York to the North Pole," each took in more than a quarter of a million dollars in six months.

To make money is the object of every business, and this is no less true of the amusement business than of any other, but the essential qualification of the amusement producer is ability to know what the public wants and how to present it in its most attractive form and at the same time to keep clear of the questionable and tawdry features.

CHEERFUL MOMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

We have received a large number of replies in answer to the puzzle of Mr.
Sam Loyd's that we have had prints in the Pictorial Supplement of this paper, and will make announcement of awards in an early issue of "Cheerful Moments." To those who are interested and who may not have sent in a subscription, it would be well to send to cents for a month's subscription, or 25 cents for a year's subscription, and then learn to whom awards have been made.
It is impossible to communicate with all who have written us personally, and, as stated in our advertisement, the announcement of awards will be made in "Cheerful Moments" only. If answer to those who have written us we may say we do not send out free sample copies. We issue what we believe is the best family magazine published, worth many times the subscription price.

As an additional inducement to send us 25 cents for a full year's subscription, we will send, absolutely free of charge, a copy of Mr. Loyd's "700 Wonderful Chinese Puzzles," valued by Mr. Loyd at $1.00, and worth $1.00 at least, in the pleasure it will give every member of the family. Remember, this will be sent you free by mail, postage and "Cheerful Moments," a large high-class monthly magazine, 12 numbers one every month, on receipt by us of 25 cents in stamps or coin. This offer is limited to the number of books we can get, and advantage of it should be taken at once. Address all letters and remittances to "CHEERFUL MOMENTS," 204 William Street, New York.

Dressmaking and Home Sewing—Lesson No. Two.

The preceding lesson was devoted to the proper method of cutting and fitting a lining for a dressy bodice or shirt waist. This lesson will tell how to sew hooks and eyes on correctly and how to design original and artistic effects in

SEWING ON HOOKS AND EYES.

The lining is now ready for the hooks and eyes. There are many new-fangled and patented hooks-and-eyes on the market; but for a tight-fitting lining the old-time plain No. 3 hooks and eyes, put on alternately, as shown in the illustration, are perhaps the most satisfactory.

While it cannot be denied that hump hooks are more desirable for closing loose fitting garments than the plain hooks, the plain hooks have the advantage of being easier to fasten and un-fasten than those with humps.

The proper way to sew hooks and eyes to a tight-fitting lining.

By alternating the hooks and eyes,
their aggravating tendency to unhook themselves whilst being hooked is prevented. The tightness of the tight-fitting lining holds them firmly once they are hooked.

Spread the shank of the plain hook when sewing on; this prevents the hook from slipping and holds it on until the waist is worn out.

Sew the hooks with strong waxed thread or twist to the two rows of stitching, as shown in the illustration.
This stitching reinforces the edge and also serves as a guide in sewing the hooks and eyes on correctly; that is,
with the eyes extended beyond the edge and the hooks set back a trifle, so that when the waist is hooked up, the edges will just meet.

Do not sew sideways through the loops of either the hooks or eyes, but directly from the back. Place at least a dozen stitches in each loop, and do not have the hooks and eyes more than an inch apart; a separation of half an inch is even better in a very tight lining.

Dainty entrelacs of hand ruch ticks form quaint designs in arabesque squares, diamonds, ovals and square shaped insets, outlined with lovely valen-cine insertions and frills.

There is no end to the devices that these seemingly intricate lace designs can be fashioned into. A look through the scrap bag and through the lace which ornament cast off garments, is apt to disclose many unsuspected treasures in the shape of designs that may be cut out of worn laces (after cleaning them) and used with frills of narrow valenciennes to give distinction and tone to a stunning evening waist.

After you have pinned the lace and medallions to the waist, carefully follow the traced lines. Finish the edge with a neat bias facing and trim with a ruffle of narrow lace or flowered net with flower motifs in heavy Point Venise or Irish lace to give distinction.

The fashion in trimmings and garnish-tures for these smart waists are so elastick that one frequently sees a mingling of two or three kinds of lace, and mixtures of cream and white, ecru and white and black and white upon the same waist.
